NKB Rebel 2010 - Kite only

From fantastic, glassy speed tracks to every kind of waves, Rebel 2010 is the ultimate all-terrain free ride kite of your dreams!

The very smooth, agile control behavior supports much response, even with a depowered shield. This makes Rebel to an ideal kite in surfing and a great toy in probably all conditions.

The loaded fifth leach design gives Rebel 2010 100% security and a short and aggressive force path that is 30% shorter than at kites with bridles.

This means that a really huge wind range can be covered with just one kite - ideal for days with unpredictable flurry winds. Moreover, the short power stroke supports the luxury of an ON/OFF mode that is especially important down the line in the waves. The new floating strut - a middle tube that is not connected over the entire length with the drapery - supports a free move of the canopy above the tube. This allows a fuller flow and a rock solid position in the zenith in powered up state, as well as a more direct depower. The new "V" binding of the backlines directly transmits the strain of the backlines for a very solid feel at the bar. In combination with the new bungee system all unwanted snarls during the relaunch are avoided. The well-known, unique sensitivity and smoothness of Rebel's controls were enhanced by an additional segment in the leading edge again. The ultra-clean, flatter-free canopy near the tips will send continuous response about every move of the kite over the bar. So stop dreaming, grab your Rebel and up on the water!
