Liquid Force S4 2010

No other wake boarder was more successful then Philip Soven. He made a number of tricks that nobody else could manage. His new professional model developed in just one season into one of the most popular boards in the scene. Due to its tail and fin design the board stands extremely good in the water, is keeping incredibly well on edge but anyway dissolves from the water like no other board. In all lenghts it is available also as limited edition with a robust grind base.

Properties:

- Progressive, three stage rocker
Gives rider a higher trajectory arc off the wake while maintaining a smooth flowing transition from the mid-section to the tail.
- Double concave, Quad V hull design
- D-I-S-C hull through center into deep double concaved quad V out the tail
DISC for softer landings with no speed loss
Concaves w/ quad V for extra lift and faster rail to rail action
- Winged scalloped tail outline - full shape with release at rail wings
Allows rider to shorten the arc of his turn off the wing for slaying
- Deep molded long base side fins with cutaway trailing edge
Long base for superior hold at speed, cutaway tailing edge for quicker release off the wake
- Shallow molded inside blade fins placed at top of inside V
Blades control water flow through inside concave V for more control

- Centerline single vent along V at the tip
Detaches water flow across centerline at end of board for increased speed
- Low volume rails with reduced area at ends
Faster on edge with more hold.... Rail flex at end for more drive out of turns
- Variable edge rails
